a portal to the next paradigm opened to Humanity. There was no squeaky hinge sound, no metal detectors to pass through, no check point guards, no waiting line, no pushing or pulling, no alarms, buzzers, or oscillating lights. This portal opened subtly, silently, and invisibly. Though some think nothing happened on this date, I assert that something significant did happen! A self manifested portal of possibility that I call the Archway of Willingness..... opened on Dec. 21, 2012..... and it is still open.....!

The only protocol required to manifest and pass through this portal which leads to our next collective reality, is: 1.) to be in heart-accord with our natural design to evolve - from within - duality into unity, 2.) to acknowledge one's virginity in that We have no point of reference for this occurrence, and 3.) to be w i l l i n g to humbly and innocently go through the portal as an "imperfect" being..... perfectly! Are you willing?>

What does the Archway of Willingness portal look like? We have all seen the overlap of two circles in the flower of life geometric design, the intersecting space of which is called the vesica pisces.

It resembles something like a vagina or birth opening.....
.....in the unseen realm.....

How does the portal come into “reality”? We’ve heard it said, “As above, so below”. You Yourself, here below, are the generator of your own portal!

Most everyone acknowledges that the etheric heavenly archway above is now and always has been, already divinely there for Us - by design. The divine realm exists.

Now, in the material realm, WE get to generate the complement and mirrored completion of the heavenly arc, from here below. Both females and males alike can energize and form our birthing passageway leading into the 5th dimension. This opening is not necessarily seen with our eyes, but is known from deep within our essential selves.

If you did not create and access this birth canal on Dec. 21, 2012, you can STILL manifest this experience for yourself and pass through with innocence if/when you’re willing! In the Old Paradigm, it takes 21 days to establish a new habit. In the New Paradigm, it’s possible to divinely attune one’s self to the 5th dimension - the same day - by aligning with a new vibrational willingness. Focus and choose 5th dimensional expression and experience for yourself, by simply giving up the habit of living primarily in a 3rd dimension mental body, and making your new baseline for reality a 5th dimension etheric body. You’re already doing this to some degree, or you wouldn’t be reading this article! So why not just make it official?!

When you forget and habituate the 3rd D with all its complaints, dramas, and separateness, acknowledge your complicitness and then regroup. It’s OK. Realize we are all quite naturally still finding our balance as awakened multi-dimensional beings!

Before going to sleep at night, enjoy yourself as the I AM that You Are. Validate yourself as a 5th D being. Take a minute to review all the people who are in your personal storyline as 5D companions, and be in gratitude for them. These can be friends, family, acquaintances, spokespeople that you don't even know whose messages you resonate with, or avatars - either living or already passed over. Go ahead and include the so-called villains in your story who help you by providing valuable contrast!

(If you feel you would like more friends and community in your life who operate on a 5D frequency, then as an awakening coach, I can partner with you to help you attract them.....! It's what I love doing.)

When You step through the Archway of Willingness, you will be developing healthy new habits which anchor you in the new realm. One very important new habit to develop as a 5th dimensional being is to give up being appalled. The tragedies and traumas of the 3rd dimension ARE horrifying, disgusting, shocking, painful, and grievous. It is a habit (even an addiction) to observe the despair in our world and to be so affected by it that you end up intensifying the signal strength of that despair, and literally serve as a despair transmitter.

We have been conditioned to react and recoil in shock from the cruelty of the barbs, pricks, slashes and goring of the emotional and physical torture of ever-increasing dehumanization that typifies the 3rd dimension. Like something out of a James Bond movie, we have feared (and understandably so), being impaled on the sharp spikes of control protruding from the steadily compressing walls of our containment, as it were. By invalidating the spikey nature of our 3-D reality, and by continuing to be appalled by it, we thereby give energy to the same reality from which we seek liberation. Rather than be appalled, which serves to strengthen the 3-D prison walls, let us evolve, outgrow, and dematerialize the walls of the box, spikes and all, NOW, while we can!

This is my new year's resolution
For 2013 – to stop being appalled
by how appalling
the 3rd dimension is!

Giving up being appalled....
is not hard-hearted, it is the new compassion.

Look at what has always appalled you -- and see with new eyes. Hold the current of joy through allowance, (with balance), while allowing the last vestiges of 3D separation consciousness of misery and drama, to fracture and disintegrate under its own weight. Withhold your consent to be emotionally and energetically jerked around by the sheer horror of an untransformed reality. This is what it will take to catapult Us to a higher plane of consciousness where we birth our new Humanity. As Humans learn to break out of our old victimizer/victim co-dependency vibration, we will remember how to be free. The old paradigm doesn't need fixing. It is exactly what it is supposed to be - both agony and ecstasy, beautiful and profane, Us vs Them, against a backdrop of duality.

The new compassion is knowingness from a perspective of unity that says: All is well on the path of self empowerment. As we are willing to find new interpretations for the process we're in, the old societal structures that were built on judgement and division, that flourished because of the intentional perpetuation of human suffering, will dissolve. A New Paradigm for Humanity is being established out of a deep sense of self responsibility and coalescence with those others of like-frequency.

All of this gets put into actuality, as each individual chooses to proactively pass through the Archway of Willingness. There's no need to wait! All it takes is a willing, open heart. Assemble your portal now. As above, so below. Imagine it, feel it, broadcast it as your professed reality, and pass through the birth canal as a blameless newborn, full of beauty and worth. Welcome to the New Paradigm.

See.....? Something really DID happen on Dec. 21st, 2012!!
